

World Bank eLibrary vs. Open Knowledge Repository (OKR)

eLibrary.worldbank.org

 The World Bank eLibrary is a subscription-based website designed for the unique needs of researchers and libraries. Built on a state-of-the-art publishing platform, the World Bank eLibrary offers a number of value-added features and functionality for easier discovery, access, and use of World Bank publications and research. It contains the full collection of all World Bank books, journals, flagship reports, and working papers since the 1990s plus country and regional data from World Development Indicators.

openknowledge.worldbank.org

 The World Bank Open Knowledge Repository (OKR) is the World Bank's official open access repository for its research outputs and knowledge products. It is built on a repository platform that meets open access standards for inter-operability with other repositories. The OKR not only collects, disseminates, and permanently preserves Bank's intellectual output, it also serves as the portal for the general public to freely access recent World Bank research.
